Reports of the Superintendent

The Super's 8 Highlights

1. The QPS Foundation completed its recent grant funding cycle, awarding a total of $147,631.37. Projects of note were representing grants to all QPS schools.
2. Summer Academy ends this Friday. Nearly 700 students engaged in intervention and enrichment learning opportunities, credit recovery, and took courses they are not able to fit into their school year schedule.
3. Recently, emergency response teams from Quincy City Police and Adams County Sheriff's Office conducted training drills for their officers at the BOE, Lincoln-Douglas and Rooney.
4. During the 2023 – 2024 School Year, I have been out and about in our schools. I was able to visit 205 classrooms, make 45 school building walks and attend 37 extracurricular competitions and events.
5. The first year of funding from the Teacher Vacancy Grant pilot program has been distributed to all certified staff. QPS was awarded approximately $210,000 for three years. New certified staff this year received a $750 stipend. All special education teachers received an additional $450 dollar stipend. All certified staff received a $200 Amazon gift card to use for classroom supplies.
6. QHS Administration and staff have worked together this spring to revise the use of electronic devices rule. QHS administration and teacher have made some revisions to the basic policy that has been in the handbook for the last 5+ years, limiting the use of cellphones with the goal of increasing student engagement and curtailing distractions.
7. QPS Transportation Department is fully operational in the new Central Services facility. Summer school has been a test run for the department on a smaller scale, and Scott Douglas, Director of Transportation reports everything has worked smoothly. Work continues on the technology and maintenance departments.
8. Kim Dinkheller has been appointed to a three-year term on the Adams County Historical Society board, highlighting the strong connection between QPS and the broader Quincy community.
