ACADEMIC RIGOR

John Wood offers highly rigorous programs and instruction for high-achieving students.

Students have the incredible opportunity to connect with JWCC professors who are practicing attorneys, CEOs, expert nurses, professional musicians and published authors.

What bonds all John Wood professors together is a passion for teaching and ensuring all students have a solid foundation in their first two years of college.

JWCC graduates often attend regional universities, and many have successfully completed their college careers at prestigious institutions such as Purdue University, University of Texas, University of Illinois, Northwestern University and more. While there, they've studied everything from aerospace engineering and medicine to sports journalism and law.

TRANSFERABILITY

John Wood students have successfully transferred to more than 100 colleges and universities nationwide. Students who have identified their transfer institution work with JWCC academic advisors to ensure all courses match with the school to which they plan to transfer. Those who are uncertain of a career path or transfer institution work with academic advisors to identify a career pathway and take general education courses that transfer to four-year schools.
